

There's so much pressure today to know exactly who you are so early in your life.

Maybe it's
"branding" yourself,

COOL SKATER
SLACKER

BOOK SMART
TEACHER'S PET

or picking out your
"aesthetic" for the rest of your life.

Maybe it's feeling like you have to know exactly what you're doing with your life by the time you graduate high school.

Either way, it's exhausting.

That's not how real humans function.

If you do know yourself well from
a young age, great.

Or if you think
you do + it
changes, that's cool too.

Or maybe you
have no idea
what's going on.
That's also okay.

That's how you really get to know yourself well: by fearlessly struggling through those big unknowns.