

So you have something you're saving up to buy, but saving your allowance is taking FOREVERRR. You want to get a job, but you don't know where to start.

That's where FLOW LIFE SKILLZ comes in.

flow.

First, you wanna do a little brain storming. Write down some things that you're good at!

- STAYING ORGANIZED
 - CLEANING STUFF
 - TALKING TO PEOPLE
 - TAKING CARE OF MY SIBLINGS
- #ETC.#

Stuff like this.
It can be real general!

Before you start looking for actual jobs, think about how old you are. If you're 14 or 15, you can work up to 3 hours a day (as long as it's under 18 hours per week.) The older you get, the more hours you can work each week. If you're under 18 you need a worker's permit, though.

Next, you wanna do some research.
You probably only have a little job experience (or none), which is ok!
Just look for local listings that say "no experience necessary" or "entry level position."

There's all kinds a options, like bussing tables at restaurants, working in a Target (etc.), even just baby sitting! Ask your friends too. They might have ideas or connections.

When you're applying,
don't worry if you don't have any job experience. You can still write out a resume with all the rad skills you have!

Now it's time to get saving baby, that new skateboard is just around the corner!
